It's an emotional adventure with puzzles.

There's nothing negative to say about it.

Anate studio made another great game.

And the soundtrack is awesome as well.

I just have to recommend trying it out.

Be prepared for a lot of sad emotions.

This game deserves a positive review.. Short but good atmosphere, sad story, nice music and artstyle. 7/10. 15 minutes into the game, its interesting. 45 minutes later it gets even more challenging. but after 1 hours it started to feel stupid. the storyline feels stuck. I expected a lot of feels but I only got some feels not to the extend it was really sad. And the ending was kind of strange like the creator was forced to end the game right there.

Overall the game was okay. It was not bad. I'm not sure if its worth 5 dollars though.. This is one of the best games I ever played in my whole life. Thank you for this!. The art work is awesome! I feel like I'm playing inside of a cartoon. No to spoil anything, but I spend the first 15 minutes trying to make a sandwich for the kid. Not to mention getting the toy he wants is a chore! But still, things seems to be going in a bad direction when the husband comes back. If you like story telling point and click adventure, this game is for you!

I'll update more on the review as I play. The first 20 min of gameplay just to give you guys an idea:

. This is one of the best games I ever played in my whole life. Thank you for this!. First - spoiler. Game is more of a visual novel, than a quest.

But as a quest its rather easy to play it as you have great understandable hints what to do next - not the way "shoot the crow three times so it turns to a lamp" :))) so its a logical sequence of events and efforts required, with some puzzles between.

as a visual novel first of all it shows a very beautiful graphics of intros and insets, combined with great sountrack, telling a story in couple of frames; great graphics of a game itself, i mean its gaming part and, finally, its philosophical: telling a sad story, teaching a serious lesson.

. Okay, the game is not bad-bad, but for me it's a waste of time producing it.

I hope I'm not offending the makers, they did well for a small, short game. However, it's not good enough for what I am looking for. Here are my notes in short:

Story: Overall, the game is just too predictable and monotone. It follows a simple plot line and doesn't stray even a bit from the obvious path.

Art: Cute art, but nothing too great animation-wise. Characters look cool as per the chosen animation style, though.

Music: I cannot remember any specifics about this. Didn't strike me as an important part of the game at all.

Puzzles: Illogical. It's like seeking for a specific piece of stick among a house made of sticks - that much illogical.

It's a so-so game, but I'd rather put it in the do-not-recommend bag instead of the other.. This is one of the best games I ever played in my whole life. Thank you for this!
